We are Karoline and Rasmus, and we are the owners of the eco-friendly lifestyle & travel blog, TheTravelBook.

We are a young couple and we have traveled all around the world to exotic destinations with a black climate footprint.

But now it is time to change - and we want to prove that it's possible to change bad habits without compromising on either quality or luxury.

We have been together for 6 years and we are both very passionate about traveling. We want to make sure that we can show our future kids as many incredible places as we have been lucky enough to see. This is why we back in 2018 decided to focus on sustainability.

During all our travels we've discovered that all the great initiatives we discover around the world, can also be implemented in our daily lives - which is why our focus now involves sustainable lifestyle as well as eco-friendly traveling.
